DEDICATION

The 1973 Pioneer is dedicated to Dr. Isa K. Zimmerman in sincere appreciation for all she has done for us, as individuals, and as members of the RMHS student body. "Thank you" seems inadequate to say to one who has accomplished so much in such a short time. Dr. Zimmerman has generously lent her spirit, charm, and imagination to problems and projects, both old and new, personal and school wide. Her innovative ideas have affected us all, sparking a new awareness for learning which extends far beyond school walls. She has dedicated herself to us with a sincere concern for our individual growth, and as a symbol of our gratitude we now dedicate the yearbook to her.

*I am not a teacher; only a fellow traveler of whom you asked the way.
I pointed ahead — ahead of myself
as well as you.*

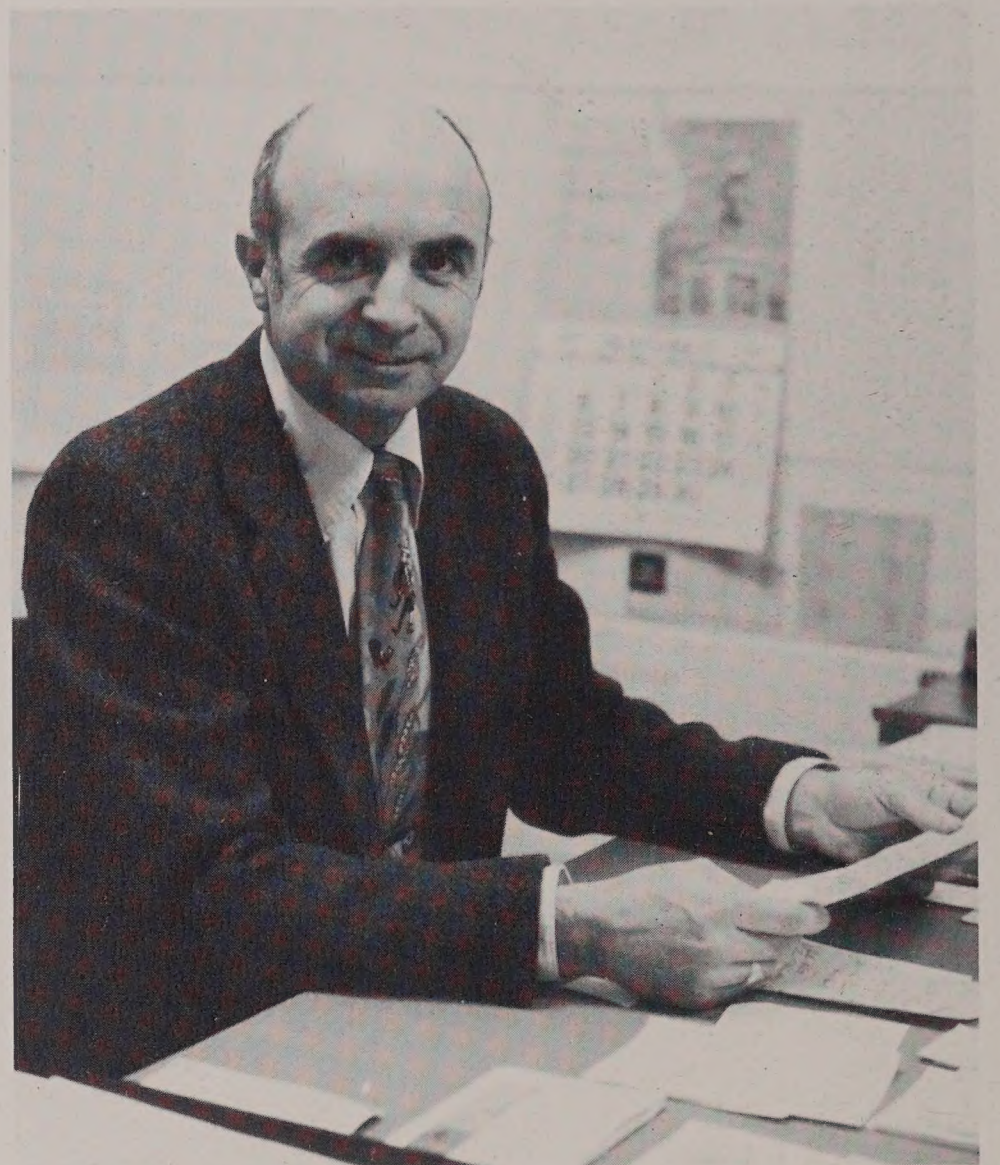

BERNARD SHAW

FACULTY
and
ADMINISTRATION

The real purpose of education is to help people find good and valid reasons for being alive and staying alive—to bring order out of disorder, to see sense in a welter of nonsense, to find beauty in a profusion of ugliness, and finally to develop life styles that will provide them a measure of contentment and serenity a cut above the purely animalistic level of existence. I congratulate those members of the graduating class who have achieved some of those insights. I grieve for the others who failed to make the effort to learn what RMHS was really all about.

ARA A. KARAKASHIAN

The daily obligation of attending school for many years has played an important part in developing your character. To be dependable is an outstanding trait for any person. Just as we all depend on the physical laws of the universe to give stability and continuity to our physical environment, so it is that we depend on each other to give continuity to our lives. Man depends on man. Other men are depending on you.

ERNEST G. SPENCE

Perhaps one of the most significant words in our language is "Why." Not the surly "Why" of the 20 horsepower rebel in search of a crusade, but that sincerely curious "Why" with which a mature person tries to discover his piece of truth.

Habitual use of that question allows one to use the free inquiry which can lead to valid conclusions. It also allows the intelligent mind to change. It is, in reality, a beautiful word.

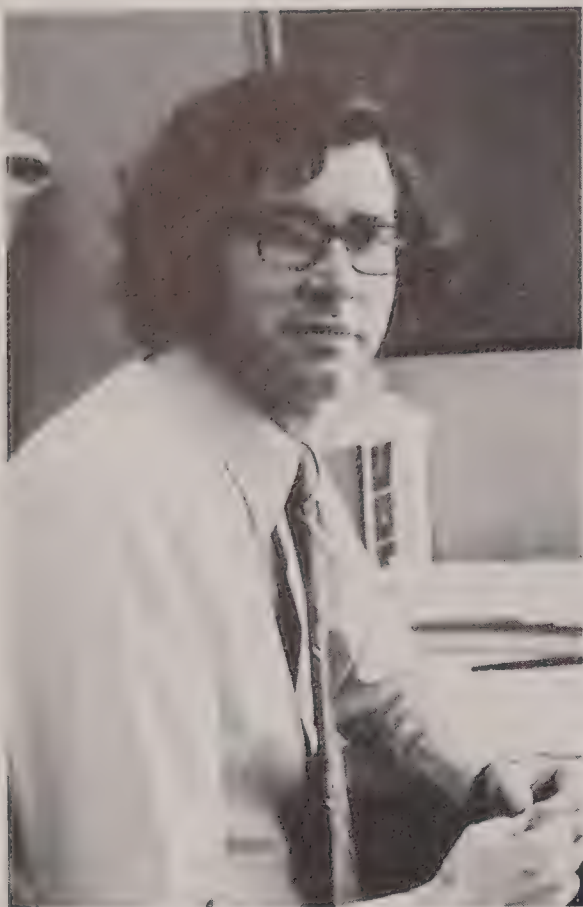

L. F. D'ORLANDO

It is our job as administrators to create a climate at RMHS in which teachers and students will do their jobs—happily, productively, and most important, excellently. We strive to set a tone and establish a direction for the school from which everyone in the building benefits. That includes our work in scheduling, curriculum development, faculty supervision, student discipline. It causes us to be concerned with such things as budget and behavior.

It is our educational goal to enable students to find their own educational goals.

IN MEMORIAM

FRANK MILLER
1954-1971

A yearbook is a summation of many lives at one point in time. It takes the individual and his accomplishments and acknowledges, however superficially, what has happened to him during that time span.

As we leave RMHS, we pause to remember Frank Miller, a classmate who was with us for so brief a time.

Frank's activities reflected an action-oriented lifestyle. Skiing, hockey, camping were but a few of the sports and outdoor activities he relished. His need for activity was consistent; he was best at projects and situations involving manual skill. Fixing a car or working with wood—he was most relaxed when working with his hands.

During his freshman and sophomore years he also became interested in Youth Narc, an organization which devotes its time to the mentally retarded; he served as its president during his sophomore year.

A very private person with a few close friends, Frank, is remembered best by them for his sense of humor, loyalty and desire for independence.

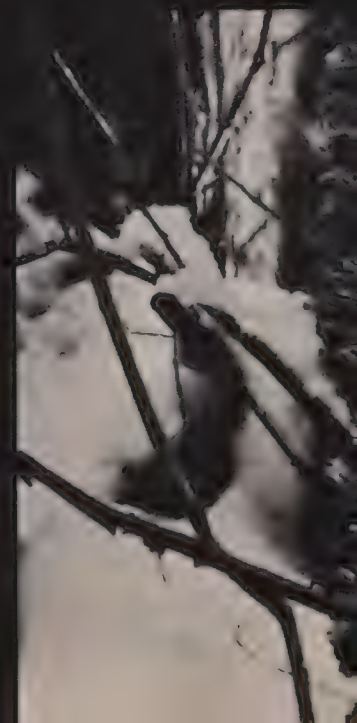

ON BECOMING AN ADULT:

As the twig is bent.

*So grows
the tree...*

FATHER AND SON

Father: It's not time to make a change; just relax take it easy, you're still young that's your fault there's so much you have to know. Find a girl, settle down, if you want you can marry, look at me, I am old, but I'm happy.

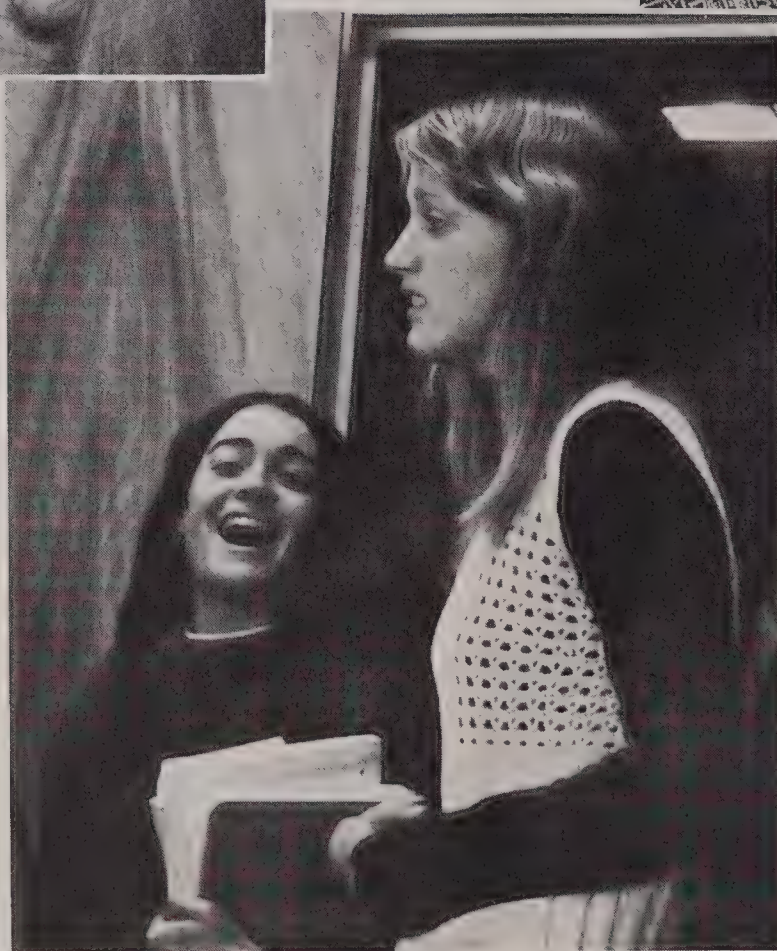

I was once like you are now, and I know that it's not easy to be calm when you've found something going on, but take your time, think a lot, why think of everything you've got, for you may still be here tomorrow, but your dreams may not.

Son: How can I try to explain, 'cause when I do, he turns away again, it's always been the same same old story. From the moment I could talk I was ordered to listen, now there's a way and I know that I have to go . . .

*Away, away, away
I know I have to make this decision
alone.*

CAT STEVENS

Nothing is more wondrous . . .

than a human being when he begins to discover himself.

WALTER RINDER

There are red-letter days in our lives when we meet people who thrill us like a fine poem, people whose handshake is a brimful of unspoken sympathy, . . . Perhaps we never saw them before, and they may never cross our life's path again; but the influence of their calm mellow natures is a calm poured upon our discontent.

*Soon as I'm through with kindergarten,
I'm going to drop out of school . . . Nothing harms a person more than too much formal education.*

CHARLES SCHULZ
(Peanuts)

... And they told the child to starve and to kill the child that was within him; for only by doing this could he safely enter their world; only by doing this could he become a useful adjusted member of the community which they had prepared for him. . .

KENNETH PATCHEN

*You will do foolish things,
but do them with enthusiasm.*

COLETTE

*I have stumbled many times
on the unexplored road of life,
but I travel on
knowing the journey is mine.*

CAROLYN BOVIARD

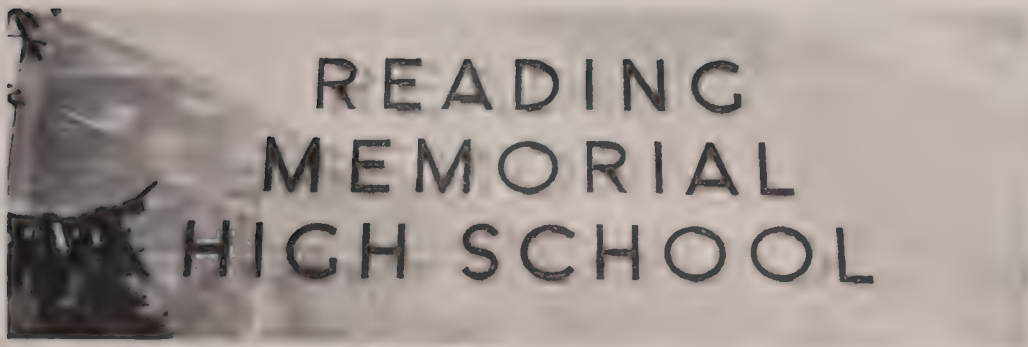

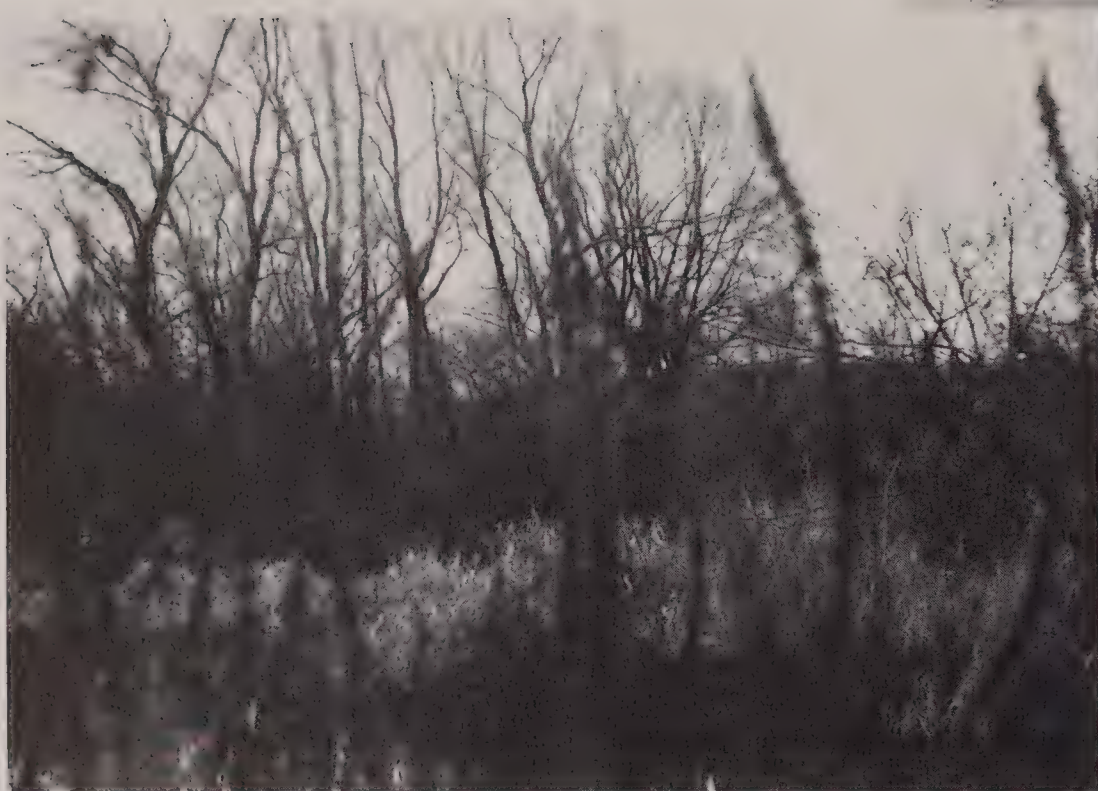

*Life's greatest achievement is the continual remaking of yourself so that at last
you know how to live.*

MARK TWAIN

*You never really leave
a place you love.
Part of it you take with you,
leaving a part of you behind.*

"Would you tell me please, which way I ought to go from here?"

"That depends a good deal on where you want to get to," said the cat.

LEWIS CARROLL
from Alice in Wonderland

*Across the morning sky
All the birds are leaving,
Ah, how can they know
It's time for them to go?
Before the winter fire.
We'll still be dreaming,
I do not count the time.
Who knows where the time goes,
Who knows where the time goes?*

SANDY DENNY

Liz Brocki

*Involvement with people is always a very delicate thing . . . it takes great maturity to

Linda Hovey and Just Almas

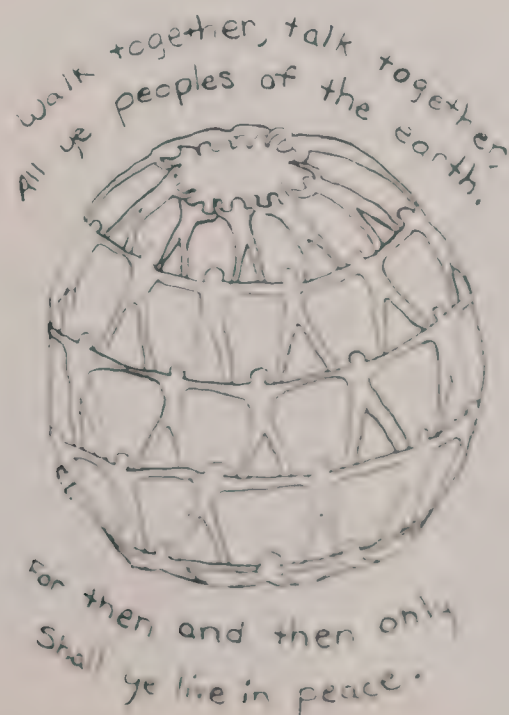

My A.F.S. experience was a unique one, since the way of life on a small Norwegian farm differs greatly from that in suburban Reading. It seems only natural to compare a completely new situation with what you're accustomed to. People in Norway were easy-going and seldom in a hurry. Since my new family was so close and loving, I actually felt like part of them within two weeks of my arrival. Weekdays we worked very hard, but evenings and Sundays were spent visiting friends or hiking through the beautiful mountains. The language barrier was a slight problem for me at first, but with the patient help of my three host sisters I was soon able to participate in simple conversations. I'll never forget the great feeling the first time my Norwegian mother and I conversed and actually comprehended each other! I tried to give my host family and others I met a realistic idea of people and life in America. In turn I certainly gained an understanding of some new people and their country. A surprise to me was how similar these people are to us. I left Norway with many happy memories and the feeling that people are much alike, whether you happen to be living in Reading, Massachusetts or Viksdalen, Norway—or anywhere else in the world.

LINDA HOVEY
A.F.S.—Norway 1972

This past year in Reading attending RMHS has been an interesting one for me. Such a close contact with another culture has been educational, and it has given me new ideas and views from which I hope I can benefit. It is also my hope that I have contributed a little to spread knowledge about my own culture. People always want to know which one I hold for the better, but that is a question that is impossible to answer, because the products of both societies resemble each other greatly. Maybe not in what they do every day and their ways of tackling problems, but in their values and goals.

I would like to say "Thank you" to the town of Reading, RMHS, and last but not least the Garrards for their hospitality, which made me feel welcome and as a part of the family.
